The Lady of The Lilacs.

By Philip Kean.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Sherwood called her "The Lady of the Lilacs" because always on spring days there was a bunch of lilacs on her desk, offerings from the girls to a best loved teacher.

"You simply can't help loving her," Betty Baynes said to Sherwood in her emphatic young girl way. "You simply can't help it, Uncle Jack."

"I don't see," Uncle Jack ventured, "where her particular charm comes in."

"She's so sweet," Betty analyzed, "and dainty—and—and—"

Betty was getting into deep water. "Anyhow, she's lovely."

Sherwood always called for his niece after school and drove her out to Sherwood farm, where Betty and her widowed mother made their home with him. The farm was beyond the town—a great place, with great barns, where were housed the beautiful horses that had made the farm famous.

As he sat in the trap waiting he could look right into the windows of the room where Miss Duval taught, and he could see her head bent over her desk, with the great bunch of lilacs making a background.

"Look here," he said to Betty one afternoon as they drove away from the sunshine. "I'd like to paint her that way."

"What way?" asked Betty.

"Paint Miss Duval—just her head, bent a little, against a background of lilac blooms, with a circle of gold inclosing it like a halo."

"Oh, Uncle Jack," Betty's face was beaming. "It would be beautiful."

"I'd call it 'The Lady of the Lilacs,'" Sherwood planned. "By George, Betty, I believe it would be the best thing I've done."

But "The Lady of the Lilacs" when approached refused to be painted. "Oh, please tell Mr. Sherwood," she said breathlessly, "that I couldn't think of such a thing. I am sure he can find a better model, Betty."

"He can't," he said to Betty obstinately. "Please, please, Miss Duval."

The little teacher shook her head. "Don't insist, dear," she said. "I really cannot."

"Now, what do you think of that, Uncle Jack," said Betty, almost in tears, as they drove away that night.

"I don't know what to think," said Sherwood. "I hate to give up the idea."

"You know you always get your own way when you want it, Uncle Jack."

"Yes, I do," said Sherwood thoughtfully.

Several days later when Betty came out of the school arm in arm with the little teacher Sherwood met them at the door.

"Won't you let us drive you home, Miss Duval?" he urged. "We will go the long way round, and it will do you good."

Miss Duval hesitated. "Oh," she began, but Betty interrupted: "Of course you'll go. You've never driven behind the Buckner team, and they are such beauties."

It developed that Miss Duval was from Kentucky and that she loved horses. "I used to ride a great deal out there," she admitted.

"Why can't you ride here?" Sherwood demanded. "We have a half dozen ladies' mounts in the stables that are growing fat and lazy for want of exercise."

"I haven't a habit," Miss Duval murmured.

"I have two," Betty announced promptly. "and you can wear one."

On Saturday Miss Duval in Betty's covert cloth habit and three cornered hat and mounted on Hulda Buckner was a transformed creature.

"I thought she was pretty," was Sherwood's mental comment, "but, by Jove, she's a beauty."

And more and more he yearned to paint her.

To that end he paid her most devoted attention, and it became a regular thing for the little teacher to spend the week ends at Sherwood farm. Betty's mother found her charming.

"I am glad to have Betty under her influence," she told her brother. "She is a lady to her finger tips."

"Yes," Sherwood agreed moodily, "but I wish she would let me paint her as 'The Lady of the Lilacs.'"

His sister flared indignantly. "I don't believe you ever look at a woman except from the standpoint of art."

Sherwood laughed. "I don't fall in love easily, if that is what you mean," he said and shrugged his shoulders and went on.

That afternoon he sauntered down to the end of the big garden where Dulcie Duval was pouring tea. The little table was set under a lilac bush, and the fragrance of the blossoms filled the air.

Betty, on the other side of the bush, was playing tennis with a boy from town. Mrs. Baynes had been called to the house, and Sherwood was alone with the Lilac Lady.

"I wish you would let me paint your picture," he said to her.

"No," she said slowly. "I am not sure that I like the idea of my picture hanging in a gallery for the public to gaze at."

"Surely," Sherwood urged, "one should not keep beauty hidden."

"I am not beautiful," she said quietly. She leaned back in the big wicker chair. Her face was very pale, and there were shadows under her eyes. Behind her the lilacs tossed their pale purple plumes in the spring breeze.

"I am not beautiful," she repeated.

"but I think I ought to tell you why I do not want my picture placed before the public."

It was all in a single little tale. She was married. That was the fact that was borne in upon him with stunning force. Her husband had been her father's choice, not her own.

"We were rich," she explained, "but after my father's death my husband spent everything we had, and I was very unhappy. So I ran away and took my maiden name. And that is why I do not want my picture to appear. I do not want him to find me—ever."

She said it vehemently, with a little flush on her cheeks. "My father said love would come, she went on hurriedly, "but it did not. I felt for Betty's sake I ought to tell you. It's such unpleasant history that you might not care to have me with her so much."

Sherwood hung up his head. Suddenly it seemed to him that there was nothing that he so much wished to do as to shelter her from misfortune.

"Betty will always be honored by your presence, as we all are—as we shall always be," he said, and she smiled at him and held out her hand.

"Somehow I felt that I had found a friend," she said simply. "That is why I told you. It seemed best, and I knew you would understand."

That afternoon Sherwood went for a long ride on his favorite horse, Maxtel, and during that ride he fought a battle. Now that Dulcie Duval was out of reach she seemed the most desirable thing in the world. Indeed, from the first moment she had been desirable, but he had let the artist in him blind the lover. He had made himself think that it was her picture, not herself, that he wanted.

"That afternoon Sherwood went for a long ride on his favorite horse, Maxtel, and during that ride he fought a battle. Now that Dulcie Duval was out of reach she seemed the most desirable thing in the world. Indeed, from the first moment she had been desirable, but he had let the artist in him blind the lover. He had made himself think that it was her picture, not herself, that he wanted."

When he came back that night, Betty met him on the porch.

"We are going for a ride early in the morning," she said, "Miss Duval and I, and I want you to go with us."

"Not tomorrow, Bettykins," he murmured. "I've got a lot of things to do. I am planning to spend the summer in Paris."

"He's going away," Betty cried, "and he doesn't know when he will come back."

And Sherwood, watching the face of the Lady of the Lilacs, saw it grow pale, and his heart leaped at the thought that she cared.

In the early morning from his bedroom window he saw them ride away. Five minutes later he was at the stables. "How does it happen that Miss Duval is riding Maxtel?" he demanded of a groom.

"Hulda is lame," said the man, "and Miss Duval insisted on riding Maxtel. We tried to get her to have one of the other mounts, but she wouldn't."

"Maxtel can't be trusted," said Sherwood sharply. "not with a lady. He never likes the flutter of skirts."

"I know, sir." The man looked worried.

"Well, get Buckner Belle ready," Sherwood ordered. "and I'll go after them."

As he cantered down to the gate a boy met him with a telegram. Without looking at the address, Sherwood tore it open, then as a half dozen words confronted him he saw that it was not for him, but for Miss Duval. Her husband was dead, her lawyer wired, and she must come at once.

In that moment the whole world changed for Sherwood. He knew that he was unseeing for him to grow light headed because of the death of a fellow creature. But for her meant freedom, for him happiness.

He paid the boy and spurred his horse to greater speed, and at last he saw ahead of him Betty on a sturdy little mare; Dulcie, holding in Maxtel, who danced along the road in a way that spelled danger.

And even as Sherwood looked Maxtel bolted.

After him, like a shot, went Buckner Belle.

The big horse was not a match for the brilliant mare, and presently Sherwood was beside Dulcie, his hand on Maxtel's bridle.

Maxtel, meek as a lamb at the sound of the well known voice, stopped so suddenly that Dulcie swayed and slipped from his back inertly. Sherwood, dropping the bridle, caught her in his arms.

"Dulcie," he said impulsively; "Dulcie, dear!"

She opened her eyes. "Please," she said faintly, "let me go. You must not."

"Hush!" he said. "You are not strong enough to stand alone, and you have a right here. You are free at last, dear heart."

Her startled eyes met his. "How?" she questioned.

"He is dead," he said quietly. "You are to go to Kentucky this afternoon. Betty's mother will go with you."

He released her then and went on in steady tones.

"But you will come back, Dulcie. When you feel that it is right—you will come back to me?"

Betty was pounding down the road on the sturdy mare. Dulcie looked up at Sherwood, strong and grave between the beautiful horses.

"Yes," she said, and suddenly her face was illumined. "Yes, I will come back, and you shall paint me—your 'Lady of the Lilacs.'"

Feminine Amenities.

"What did you think of the wedding? Was I nervous?"

"Well, a little at first, dear, but not after Reggie had said 'I will.'—Hurry's Weekly.

A Long Dance.

The longest dance on record is probably that of Willie Kepp, an actor of some celebrity in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. He was a Canadian and danced all the way from London to Norwich.

He was attended by a laborer, a servant and an overseer, and it was doubtless a good thing for him that there were no omnibuses or police then, for they would probably have imposed more impediments in the way of his progress than did the country people.

His started with several presents of groats and crooked staves for luck, and laden with these, he danced to Stratford with out rest.

Subsequently he went in for early rising to avoid market people, and, though suffering from a sprain of the hip which he received, he danced, it well again, to the delight of the crowd which accompanied him, some 200 in number.

When he reached Norwich he had to dance in and out of the city twice, for his overseer misled him in the crowd and made him do the distance over again to avoid any possibility of error.—London Graphic.

Live Mule, Dead Boar.

An odd hunting adventure recently befell a British officer in India. He was mounted on a fleet mule and was running down a wild boar, intending to lance it, when the animal turned, bit the mule's leg and then fled again. The mule screamed savagely, and in a minute she had deposited the officer on the ground. Then, kicking out vigorously five or six times, as if to show that her legs were all right, she started after the unfortunate pig at lightning speed, with fury in her eyes and vengeance in the crook of her ear.

The race was not long, and the wild boar soon realized that he had exasperated a relentless enemy. He was soon whined, and the mule, coming up with him, caught him by the backbone with her teeth, crunched it and threw him to the ground and then, before he could rise, kicked him so viciously that he was a dead boar in less than no time. Then the mule returned to her master and gave utterance to a "hee-haw" of triumph.

Between Supper and Breakfast.

Many persons, says a well known doctor, though not actually sick, know below par in strength and general tone, and he is of the opinion that fasting during the long interval between supper and breakfast, and especially the complete emptiness of the stomach during sleep, adds greatly to the amount of emaciation, sleeplessness and general weakness we so often meet. It is logical to believe that the supply of nutriment should be somewhat continuous, especially in those who are below par, if we would counteract their emaciation and lower degree of vitality, and as bodily exercise is suspended during sleep, with wear and tear correspondingly diminished, while digestion, assimilation and nutritive activity continue as usual, the food furnished during this period adds more than is destroyed, and increased weight and improved general vigor are the results.—London Globe.

A Theater Dialogue.

The curtain had fallen on the first act at a Broadway theater when a man, correctly attired and apparently of refinement, leaned toward a woman occupying a seat directly in front of him—a woman who had naturally removed her hat, but whose hair was arranged in the extreme of fashion, added by "thoughtful" puffs.

"I beg your pardon, madam," said the man in an audible whisper, "but if you would remove your hair and substitute your hat I believe I would be able to see something more of the stage."

The woman didn't scream. She didn't even faint. She merely turned around and replied:

"Jack, if you weren't my brother I'd slap your face."—New York Globe.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering as they imagine, from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or over-zealous doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better. The cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispensing all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in position. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve tonic "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental activity and despondency. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take and candy.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE

Sonoma, Sonoma County, Cal., August 15, 1908

H. H. GRANICE, Editor.

Index-Tribune's Thirtieth Birthday Anniversary.

WITH this issue the INDEX-TRIBUNE enters upon its thirtieth birthday. For twenty-five of these thirty years this paper has been under its present management, and yet it seems but yesterday since we wrote our introductory to the people of this valley. Many changes have taken place in our midst since then. The leading men of town and valley of a quarter of a century ago have all passed away and others have appeared upon the scene and taken their places. To the old-timers in a retrospective mood the old town is not what it used to be. Great changes have been wrought in this cycle of time and many in our community miss their former business, social and political associates, whose places have been filled by a new generation of men and women. The INDEX-TRIBUNE, however, still survives, as buoyant and as vigorous as ever.

For a quarter of a century the editor of this paper has noted these various changes in the social and business life of the Sonoma Valley and every happening of note has been faithfully recorded in these columns during that period. The files of the INDEX-TRIBUNE also show that editorially we have hewn strictly to the line in our promise of many years ago to conduct its columns in a fair, fearless, independent and impartial manner, and to make known to the outside world the attractions of one of the most healthy and beautiful valleys in all California. Many, very many, of our people have appreciated our efforts along these lines, which is our compensation, and for which we are truly grateful.

With the commencement of the new volume to-day the INDEX-TRIBUNE is more strongly entrenched in this town and valley than ever before and gives promise of doing much good in the journalistic field for many years yet to come. It is true its editor, who came here a young man twenty-five years ago, has long since passed the age of discretion, nevertheless he is not yet a fit subject for Dr. Osler, and can be found doing business at the old stand in the same old way.

Regulars Win Out In Republican Primaries.

THE result of the Republican primaries in this State Tuesday was a sweeping victory for the Regular organization over the Lincoln-Roosevelt League. This will insure the renomination of the seven Republican Congressmen elected two years ago and the return to the Legislature of most of the Assemblymen elected by the Republicans at that time. As the organization has fourteen hold-over Senators in the Legislature the return of Senator Perkins to the United States Senate is now a certainty.

For Congressman from this district Hon. Duncan E. McKinlay, who has already been endorsed for the nomination by the Republicans of Sonoma county in convention assembled, will be the nominee. As Mr. McKinlay has made good the past four years and accomplished more for his constituents in the Second Congressional district than any man who has ever previously represented them in Congress, he will undoubtedly be re-elected by a handsome majority by an appreciative constituency who will vote for him regardless of party affiliations.

Outcome of Republican Primaries in this County.

The outcome of the Republican primaries in Sonoma county is a victory for the organization and insures the renomination of W. H. A. Weske of Santa Rosa for the Assembly in the Seventeenth district. The nominee in the Sixteenth district will be Lyman Green, who has the solid Petaluma delegation behind him.

For Superior Judges it now looks as though Joseph P. Berry of Santa Rosa and Thos. Denny of Petaluma would be the nominees.

For Supervisors in the First, Third and Fifth districts at this writing it is impossible to make anything like an accurate guess as to whom will be the nominees. There are too many statesmen yearning to serve their country in that capacity in each of the three districts. Here in the First district four candidates have already been mentioned for the office, all of whom will sit as delegates in the convention which meets in Santa Rosa next Monday. These are J. K. Bigelow and L. L. Lewis of Agua Caliente precinct, N. R. Knight of San Luis and J. Harry Weise of Glen Ellen, and there may be others. The Sonoma delegation has no particular candidate in view for Superior, but have expressed a preference for Jos. P. Berry for one of the Superior Judges and will vote with the organization for the other offices.

VERITABLY the automobile is an engine of destruction. Of late the list of fatalities charged up to it in San Francisco and the Coast counties have averaged at least one a day. These deaths are due directly to the handling of machines by inexperienced persons and a stop should be put to it by the next Legislature. Not only are the lives of the automobilists jeopardized by reckless amateur chauffeurs, but those of the general public as well.

MRS. Bigelow and Lewis, the Agua Caliente delegates to the Republican county convention, made a hurricane automobile contest in that precinct at the primary election Tuesday, and now they are dubbed "machine" politicians.

Ordinance No. 93

An Ordinance amending Section 4, Subdivision I, and Section 5, Subdivision II, of Article IX, of Ordinance No. 68, entitled "An Ordinance revising the Ordinances of the City of Sonoma," passed and approved November 21st, 1900.

The Board of Trustees of the City of Sonoma do ordain as follows:

Section 1. Section 4, of Subdivision I, of Article IX, of said Ordinance No. 68, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 4. When licenses must be procured:

A license authorizing the person obtaining the same to transact the business designated in the license in a particular locality in the city, must be procured from the City License Collector immediately before the commencement of any business or occupation liable to a license tax. Separate licenses must be obtained for each branch establishment or separate house of business. Each and every person, firm, co-partnership, association or corporation transacting any business within the City of Sonoma which this Ordinance requires to be licensed, shall pay in advance and immediately before the commencement of any such business, and for the purpose of regulation only, a city license for pursuing such business as hereinafter provided, and any or part of any ordinance conflicting with this section is hereby repealed. Where the licenses are paid for quarterly, the first quarter shall commence on March first, the second quarter shall commence on June first, the third quarter shall commence September first, and the fourth quarter shall commence December first.

Section 2. Section 5, of Subdivision II, of Article IX, of said Ordinance No. 68, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 5. General merchandise.
Every person who at a fixed place of business in the City of Sonoma, sells any goods, wares or merchandise, drugs or medicines, jewelry or wares of precious metal, whether on commission or otherwise, except such as are sold by auctioneers at public sale, shall pay a license tax as follows:

1. Those whose average monthly sales amount to more than $1,500.00, constitute the first class, and shall pay a license tax of $12.50 per quarter year.

2. Those whose average monthly sales are less than $1,500.00 and more than $500.00, constitute the second class, and must pay a license tax of $7.50 per quarter year.

3. Those whose average monthly sales are less than $500.00 and more than $200.00 shall constitute the third class, and must pay a license tax of $4.00 per quarter year.

4. Those whose average monthly sales are less than $200.00, shall constitute the fourth class and must pay a license tax of $2.50 per quarter year.

GREAT INJUSTICE TO DISTINGUISHED NAME

Daughter of Gen. Vallejo

Protests Against 'Under the Bear Flag.'

The drama of "Under the Bear Flag," being played at one of the theatres in San Francisco, according to the papers of that city, has caused Mrs. J. H. Cutter, one of the daughters of the illustrious General M. G. Vallejo, to protest against its production.

It is claimed that General Vallejo is portrayed as the villain in the play, in which the filibusters who swooped down on Sonoma in 1846 and raised the bear flag are depicted as the heroes in the plot. It is inconceivable that the name of so distinguished a man as Gen. Vallejo should have his memory so insulted, and it is no wonder that his plucky daughter has protested against the production and threatens to enjoin the theatrical management that has placed it upon the boards.

The "Examiner" says that Mrs. Cutter also waited upon Alfred W. Hobbs, President of California Parlor, N. S. G. W., and demanded that the Native Sons refrain from insulting the memory of her distinguished parent. She is quoted as denouncing the bear flag party as adventurers and robbers who unjustly insulted her mother and imprisoned her father, who gave liberally of his wealth to the early American settlers.

President Hobbs denied that the drama was to be produced by the Native Sons, but that it had been dedicated to the order by the author, Dr. C. W. Bachman. He also assured Mrs. Cutter that the Native Sons revered the memory of her illustrious father and looked upon him as one of their own. The lady, however, could not be appeased and closed the interview with a threat to evoke the aid of the law to suppress the play.

As General Vallejo was a member of Sonoma Parlor of Native Sons when he died and was revered from one end of the State to the other, it seems very strange that his memory would be so reviled as to picture him as the villain in a play founded upon the early history of his native State. We have never read the play, but if what Mrs. Cutter claims be true the author and dramatist has done a cruel and grievous wrong to the memory of one of the noblest characters that ever breathed the breath of life.

Sues to Recover $88.50.

A civil suit was instituted in Judge Small's court Wednesday by Joseph Kiser against P. McAuliffe of this place. Plaintiff seeks to recover $88.50, alleged to be due him for material furnished in making repairs on Mr. McAuliffe's ranch between this place and Lakeville. The suit is the outcome of a misunderstanding between the parties as landlord and tenant. Kiser has been the lessee of the McAuliffe ranch for a number of years. His lease recently expired and the ranch is now rented to another party. In making a final settlement a dispute arose as to the alleged repairs made on the place, and Kiser has evoked the aid of the law to settle it.

THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY ELECTION

Regulars Win Out in Sonoma and Glen Ellen, But Are Defeated in Agua Caliente.

The Republican primaries which were held in the four election precincts of Sonoma and Glen Ellen Townships last Tuesday resulted in a mixed delegation to the County Convention, which meets in Santa Rosa next Monday.

In Sonoma the regulars had no opposition and won out "hands down," the delegates selected are as follows: Randal, McDonnell, L. Breitenbach and A. Beretta.

In Agua Caliente precinct H. P. Mathewson and John Lounibos, regulars, were defeated by J. K. Bigelow and L. L. Lewis, leaguers. In Glen Ellen precinct J. Harry Weise, George King and A. M. Hardman, regulars, were elected without opposition.

In San Luis precinct the delegates elected were N. R. Knight and Chas. Potter.

Giacomo Rignoni's Condition.

District Attorney Clarence Lea was down from Santa Rosa last Wednesday and visited Dr. Leix to inquire into the condition of Giacomo Rignoni, who was stabbed last week, and was thought to be beyond medical aid when taken to the Leix sanitarium. The condition of the wounded man remains about the same, and it will be good news to Luigi Lea, who is being detained on suspicion of being Rignoni's assailant, to know that Dr. Leix still entertains a slight hope for the recovery of the wounded man. Luigi Lea still maintains his innocence and stoutly denies that he did the stabbing. There was no eye-witness to the deed and a doubt still exists in the minds of many of our people as to the guilt of the accused, because Rignoni when first asked who stabbed him said he "thought" it was Lea.

Ex-Surveyor General of this State, Theodore Wagner of Glen Ellen, has commenced suit in the Superior Court of this county against M. Bianchini, whose farm adjoins "Casa Wagner," the country estate of the General.

The plaintiff in his complaint asks the court to grant him an injunction against defendant and damages in the sum of $1000 for diverting the waters from a spring which flows into Yulupa creek.

Among other things the plaintiff alleges in the complaint that eight years ago he constructed works whereby some of the water of the creek was diverted on to his lands for the irrigation of crops and to supply his large fish pond in which he propagates fish for his own use and for the market. The diversion of the water from the springs that feed Yulupa creek by the defendant, he says, has diminished the supply and prevents the enjoyment of a supply for the crops and the fish pond.

Ninth of September Celebration.

There was a meeting of the chairmen of the various committees of the Ninth of September Celebration at the City Hall last Thursday evening. All the committees were represented, and each submitted an estimate of the amount of funds needed to make the celebration a success and a credit to the hospitality of Sonoma. These estimates in the aggregate show that at least $750 must be raised in order to carry out the idea of the celebration as outlined by the executive committee. The chairman of the finance committee, Mr. J. K. Bigelow, feels confident of raising the necessary funds, providing the business men of Sonoma will contribute anything like what they ought to. It now behooves our people to cast aside all personal feelings and petty local squabbles and take hold of this celebration and make it a big success. Let all contribute liberally to the fund, to the end that our handsome new City Hall be dedicated in an appropriate manner and Admission Day observed in a spirit of patriotism befitting the oldest town in California.

Has Opened Law Offices Here

H. P. Mathewson, attorney and notary public, has opened law offices in the Dal Poggetto block, near the post offices. He has been practicing here for some time, but his office has been located in his private residence in the northwestern suburbs of town. Increase of business necessitated a more central location and the offices he now occupies were built especially for him by the owner of the building, Chas. Dal Poggetto. Mr. Mathewson practices in all our courts and has had much experience in both civil and criminal cases.

An Old Row Revived.

The case of E. J. Ferguson, charged with battery on complaint of Constable Jerry Allen of Glen Ellen, was tried by Justice of the Peace Small last Wednesday. After hearing the evidence the Judge dismissed the case, which had been passed up to him by Judge Wagner of Glen Ellen on a change of venue.

The battery charge was the outcome of a fight between Allen and Ferguson in Glen Ellen last October. The latter got worsted in the encounter and had Allen arrested and taken before Judge Atchinson of Santa Rosa. The case, after hanging fire for some time, was dismissed, and the defendant after being discharged from custody brought the counter-charge against Ferguson, which was dismissed by Judge Small.

Ordinance No 95

An ordinance establishing for the purpose of regulation only a license tax upon the business of wholesale and retail liquor dealers; the manner of procuring said licenses; the regulations governing the conducting of said businesses; the collection of said license tax; also miscellaneous provisions in connection with said license tax.

Section 1. Each and every person, firm, partnership, association or corporation transacting any business in the City of Sonoma which this Ordinance requires to be licensed shall pay in advance and immediately before the commencement of any such business and for the purposes of regulation only, a license tax for pursuing said business as hereinafter provided.

Section 2. Every person, firm, association or corporation who shall at any fixed place of business sell, dispose of or give away any spirituous, malt or fermented liquors or wines, where the same or any part thereof is sold, disposed of or given away to be drunk at said place of business, or at any room or place connected with, or carried on, or maintained in connection with said place of business, shall be known as a retail liquor dealer, and shall pay quarterly in advance a license tax of thirty ($30.00) dollars for each place of business carried on or maintained by him, her or them for so selling, disposing of, or giving away any such liquors or wines.

Section 3. All other persons, firms, associations or corporations who shall at a fixed place of business sell, dispose of or give away any spirituous, malt or fermented liquors or wines shall be known as wholesale liquor dealers and shall pay quarterly in advance a license tax of thirty ($30.00) dollars for each place of business carried on or maintained by him, her or them for so selling, disposing of, or giving away any such liquors or wines.

Section 4. Every person, firm, association or corporation being granted a license to conduct the business of either a retail liquor dealer or a wholesale liquor dealer in the City of Sonoma, shall file with the Board of Trustees of said City of Sonoma, his, her or their petition in writing for the granting of a liquor license, which petition must state the names of all the persons interested in the proposed business for which the particular license is desired; and also state the location of the premises, the room, rooms or place in such premises where the person or persons desire to carry on the business for which the license is prayed for; and said Board of Trustees shall vote upon the granting of said license, and a majority vote of those members of the Board present and voting being recorded in favor of the granting of said license, the same shall be ordered issued.

Section 5. All permits for licenses granted by the Board of Trustees as in the preceding section specified, unless sooner revoked as hereinafter provided, or lapsing by reason of the death, removal from the premises or from the city, or going out of business of the party or parties to whom the same was issued, shall continue in force until the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the month of May, in each odd-numbered year, at which time new petitions in writing must be filed with said Board.

Section 6. No license granted or issued under the provisions of this Ordinance shall in any manner be assignable or transferable, nor authorize any person, firm, corporation or association, other than the one therein named, to do a business thereunder; nor shall any money paid for such license or any portion thereof, after the same is issued, be returned or rebated for any cause whatever.

Section 7. All places where wine, intoxicating liquors or admixtures thereof are sold, given away, disposed of or delivered, must be closed up and business therein cease from eleven (11) o'clock p. m., until five (5) o'clock a. m., of the following day, and no business shall be transacted for which the license is held in such place during that time.

Section 8. It shall be unlawful for either a retail liquor dealer or a wholesale liquor dealer in the City of Sonoma

1. To sell, give, dispose of or deliver, or permit any other person or persons to sell, give, dispose of or deliver to any minor under the age of eighteen years, or any intoxicated person, any intoxicating drink or wine in any quantity whatever.

2. To permit any such child or intoxicated person to visit any saloon, room or place carried on in connection with any saloon where a business is made of selling, giving, disposing of or delivering any wine, intoxicating drinks or admixtures thereof for which the proprietor or proprietors of such saloon or place holds a license.

3. To keep open after eleven (11) o'clock p. m., and before 5 o'clock a. m., of the following day, any saloon or place where intoxicating liquors or admixtures thereof are sold, given away, disposed of or delivered, or transact any business in such place during that time.

4. To conduct or carry on the business of retail liquor dealer or wholesale liquor dealer without having first obtained a license therefor.

5. To conduct the business of retail liquor dealer or wholesale liquor dealer in a noisy, unlawful, disorderly or irreputable manner, or to permit gambling or dancing in their said places of business.

Section 9. Every retail liquor dealer or wholesale liquor dealer violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be liable to a fine of not less than five dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the City Jail and said fine is paid, not exceeding one day for each one dollar of such fine in case such fine is not paid, or by imprisonment in the City Jail not exceeding one hundred days or both.

And every day of the continuance of such offense shall be deemed and taken as a new offense.

Section 10. Nothing in this Ordinance shall be construed to require a license from druggists or apothecaries for selling spirituous, malt or fermented liquors or wines, for strictly medicinal purposes, when the same are sold upon a prescription of a regular physician first had and obtained by the person purchasing such liquors or wines.

Section 11. Whenever it shall appear to the Board of Trustees of the City of Sonoma from a written charge lodged with said Board that there is a violation of this Ordinance by any retail or wholesale liquor dealer who has violated, or has permitted a violation of any provision of this Ordinance, or of any amendment thereof, or that any person, firm, association or corporation holding a license under this Ordinance has sold or given, or delivered, or has permitted any other person to sell, give or deliver to any minor child, male or female, under the age of eighteen years, any intoxicating drink or wine in any quantity whatever; or has permitted any such child to visit any saloon or place where intoxicating liquors or wines are sold; or has sold, disposed of or given to, or permitted any other person to sell, dispose of or give to any person in a state of intoxication any intoxicating liquors or wine in any quantity whatever; or has kept open any such place, or business after eleven (11) o'clock p. m., and before five (5) o'clock a. m., of the following day, or transacted any business in such place during such time; or is conducting such business without having first obtained a license therefor; or is conducting such business in a noisy, unlawful or disorderly manner; or is permitting or has permitted gambling or dancing in his or their said place of business; the Board shall cause notice to be given to the person or persons holding the license for the place where said business is carried on to be personally served upon said person or persons by the City Marshal in the manner provided for the service of summons in civil actions under the Code of Civil Procedure of the State of California, commanding such person or persons to appear before said Board at a time and place therein specified to show cause why the license held by him, her or them should not be revoked, and upon the day set for the hearing the Board shall proceed to hear the proofs adduced in support of the charge and counter thereto, and if from the investigation it appears to the Board that any provision of this section has been violated or any of the acts in this section enumerated have been done or permitted to be done by such accused retail or wholesale liquor dealer, then the Board shall by an order duly entered declare the license held by any such person or persons forfeited and canceled, and thereafter it shall be unlawful for such person or persons to carry on a retail or wholesale liquor business in the City of Sonoma. And, it is expressly declared that it shall not be necessary that a violation of any provision of this Ordinance shall be had in any Court before the Board acquires jurisdiction to cancel a license under this section, but said Board shall have full power to act without the intervention of any Court whatever.

Section 12. The Board of Trustees of the City of Sonoma may revoke any license provided to be issued under this or any other ordinance of the City of Sonoma upon conviction in any Justice's or other Court of any person of disorderly or improper conduct, or any offense upon the premises of any person holding a license, or upon the conviction of the person holding said license of any offense which in the judgment of said Board shall tend to disqualify such person from holding said license. And all licenses hereafter issued by the authority of the City of Sonoma shall be issued subject to revocation as in this Ordinance provided.

Section 13. Ordinance No. 90 of the City of Sonoma is hereby repealed.

Section 14. This Ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the 1st day of August, 1908.

THE FOREHEAD.

What Its Size and Shape Are Said to Indicate.

A high forehead to be very good should be well developed about the eyebrows.

Breadth of forehead is always favorable. It is distinctly connected with breadth of character.

A forehead that curves back reveals a poetic temperament, a fondness for the arts and a talent for either music or painting.

Of course a broad forehead may be part of a weak face, and a weak chin and mouth will naturally give a truer impression of character than even a combination of a narrow forehead with an otherwise strong face.

If there is quite a perceptible bulge of the eyebrows, combined with a high forehead, the sign is of a calm, cool, deliberate thinker.

If with these eyebrows is combined a forehead that slopes gradually back, sensitive, poetic temperament is disclosed. If, again, they are combined with a short, narrow forehead, the subject will be successful in business and in everything connected with worldly matters, but he will be incapable of appreciating to any extent or of creating anything connected with the arts.—New York American.

SAW IT IN A DREAM.

A Lost Check and the Peculiar Way It Was Found.

A wealthy New York lawyer sat up late one night writing letters he had not been able to finish during the day. It was past midnight when he went out to mail them, and when he returned and was undressing he paused in dismay, missing a check for a large sum received during the day and taken home with him. In vain was the house ransacked at that late hour. He went to bed convinced that the lost check must be in the house. An hour later he fell into uneasy slumber and he awoke with his eyes of the flesh the pink check curled about an area railing four or five doors from his own house.

So real was the dream that the troubled man woke up, dressed and, slipping down the stairs into the street, walked along the sidewalk to a spot still seen vividly in his mind, and there, sure enough, standing edge upward and partly curled about the iron, was the missing check. "I think," he reported to the Psychological Research society, "my subconsciousness must have noticed it fall from my pocket as I walked to the mail box and my subliminal self pointed it out to me in sleep."—William G. Fitz-Gerald in New York Tribune.

The Dogs of Constantinople.

There are at least 235,000 dogs in Constantinople, which has a population of 1,150,000. They are the vilest of cowards and are the scavengers of the city. It is said that scores of people are bitten daily by the dogs of Constantinople, but that a case of hydrophobia was never known there. These centuries ago Nassuf Pasha, grand vizier to Achmet III., transported all the dogs to Asia and would have had them destroyed there, but the sultan, on consulting the mufti, was told that every dog had a soul and consequently forbade such wholesale destruction. After the slaughter of the janizaries Mahmoud intended to get rid of them, for he caused an immense number of sausages (b) to be made and, having poisoned them, gave the dogs a feast. Many thousands were thus killed in one day, but the people murmured so much that he was afraid to begin a second day's work. He therefore ordered them to be expelled to Asia, but the order was very indifferently executed, and in a short time the dogs were as numerous as during the time of the janizaries.

The Dog Morland Painted.

Of the many stories of the seemingly unconscious heroism of Newfoundland dogs none is more interesting than the one concerning the noble dog which Morland afterward painted. When William Phillips, bathing at Portsmouth, ventured beyond his depth and was drowning, two boatmen, instead of setting out to his rescue, haggled about a reward from the bystanders, who were urging them to go to Phillips' rescue. In the midst of the controversy a Newfoundland dog leaped into the water and brought the exhausted bather to shore. Mr. Phillips bought the dog from its owner, a butcher, and yearly gave a festival in honor of his rescuer. It was for Mr. Phillips that Morland painted the dog's picture, and Bartolozzi engraved it.

A Dream Warning.

A strange story comes from Calabria, One Braccala, a resident of Pizzo, had a dream in which he saw his son, twenty years of age, being attacked by two men, who were stabbing him with knives. Braccala awoke and, arousing his wife, told her what he had seen. She tried to calm him, but while they were still discussing the matter a noise was heard in front of the house, and, hastening down, Mme. Braccala opened the door just in time to catch her son in her arms as he fell swooning to the ground. He had been attacked and stabbed and died shortly afterward.

Too Easy For Him.

"Sir, I want work."
"Here's a penny. Buy yourself a newspaper."
"But I know nothing about running a newspaper," protested Alfred Tidins, who really wanted a time—Louisville Courier-Journal.

To thine own self be true, and it must not follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man.—Shakespeare.

OUR TIME STANDARDS.

The Four Sections That Divide the United States.

Every nation has its own time standard, but the United States has four. These standards, as they are called, were introduced in the year 1883, chiefly for the benefit of the railroads, and are known as the eastern, central, mountain and Pacific. The eastern section extends from the Atlantic coast to an irregular line drawn from Detroit to Charleston, S. C.; the central includes all between this line and another extending from Bismarck, N. D., to the mouth of the Rio Grande river; the mountain extends from here to the western boundary of Montana, Idaho, Utah and Arizona, and the Pacific includes all the remainder of the country to the Pacific coast.

The difference in time between adjoining sections is one hour, so that when it is 12 o'clock in New York city it is 11 o'clock at Chicago, 10 o'clock at Denver and 9 o'clock at San Francisco. The true local time of any place is slower or faster than the standard time, according as the place is west or east of the time meridian. Thus the local time at Boston is sixteen minutes faster than eastern standard time, while at Buffalo it is sixteen minutes slower.—Harper's Weekly.

WINNING A COAT.

The Clever Scheme That Was Worked by a French Thief.

A Frenchman had been attending the Comedie Francaise, and after the performance he took a gloomy byway in order to make a short cut to the Boulevard Montmartre. He noticed as he hastened through the dark a slight tug on his coattail, but to this he paid no attention. When he reached the bright boulevard, however, he found, to his great mortification, that one tail of his clasp-knife coat had been cut off. He notified a journalist of his loss, and the next morning an account of the odd theft appeared in the Figaro. That afternoon a man in a blue uniform called on him.

"I come, monsieur," the man said, "from the bureau of police. We have captured a suspicious character who had in his pocket a piece of fine black cloth. Let me have your mutilated coat, sir. If the piece fits it, we will know that we have apprehended the man who robbed you."

The other surrendered his coat, and from that day to this he heard no more about it. The pretended official was, of course, the thief, who had adopted that audacious means of getting the coat in order to attach to it the purchased tail.

Foot, Unicorn root, Black Cohosh root, Lady's Slipper root and chemically pure glycerine of proper strength. These preserve the medicinal principles residing in the roots employed, for any length of time in any climate. It is scientifically prepared by experienced chemists and pharmacists at the laboratory of the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Ltd., N. Y.

In the early sixties it was usually the duty of a practicing physician to ride many miles every day on his regular rounds of visits upon his patients. In those days a young man who had received a careful medical training in one of the best colleges of the day was accustomed to ride ten, twenty and often thirty miles or more, visiting the sick and afflicted. His success was soon phenomenal. Doctors and families called him for consultation to towns at considerable distances by rail. He became especially noted in the cure of obstinate and distressing diseases of women. He had early discovered that by combining the extracts of certain native medicinal plants in just the right proportion, without the use of alcohol, his "Prescription" almost invariably cured such cases. Later, in order to place this remedy before the public in a shape easily to be procured, he established a laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., where regularly qualified chemists and pharmacists were put in charge to accurately prepare his "Prescription" and put it in shape for shipment. This remedy, which he named Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, is not a "patent medicine," but is a real prescription of a real physician in a real practice, and hence the name.

These tiny, sugar-coated anti-bilious pills regulate Stomach, Liver and Bowels, cure Constipation and Bad Stomach, attended by foul breath. One or two for a laxative, three or four for a cathartic.

Pierce's Pleasant Little Pills

For the cure of women's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, the ingredients of which are printed and placed upon every bottle wrapper leaving the great laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y., where it is made, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It Stands Alone Not only in respect to its known composition, but also as the only specific advertised remedy for women's diseases which absolutely contains no alcohol.

It Stands Alone As the one medicine for women, the makers of which take their patients fully into their confidence and tell them exactly what they are taking. This Dr. Pierce can afford to do because his "Favorite Prescription" is made of such ingredients, and after a working formula that has thousands of cures to its credit—thus placing its merits above criticism.
